Leonardo

A game meant for younger children. Easy to handle, it's an involving and interactive set-up. The water, running on the slide, falls alternatively on the two big wheel and makes them rotate at different speeds. Their rotating motion could be easily transmitted to millstones, machinery or even propellers! We named the game after Leonardo the man who was one of the first to understand the importance of these machines driven by water. The structure is manufactured completely in stainless steel including; fountain, slide bowl (shaped plate and a Ø22mm rod on the edges), the two rotating elements and the main structure. Height 85 cm, width 45 cm, length 320 cm.
