Water Games

The Water Jets are a great game for two or more children - with a rotating seat and a built-in pump they are capable of spraying water over a 360° area. From a learning perspective children can reflect on the nature of water and its potential power. Two or more stations, set at a proper distance, can create a game area where children can interact with each other using only splashes of water. The seating element is composed of a turned stainless steel disc, covered with anti-slip material, connected to a robust load bearing tube. The spraying element is manufactured wholly from stainless steel leading to a Ø240mm conical 'mouthpiece'.
